

Get Real Health's Lydia Product Assists Organizations and Consumers

June 13, 2019

Applications Can be Ported from HealthVault Without Additional Development

ROCKVILLE, Md.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jun. 13, 2019-- Get Real Health®, a wholly owned subsidiary of CPSI (NASDAQ: CPSI), today announced migration capabilities with Microsoft HealthVault. Lydia, Get Real Health's multi-faceted solution for both individual consumers and organizations, now provides Microsoft HealthVault users with an easy migration path to a robust personal health record solution. Lydia's application migration capabilities for HealthVault-connected applications allow a seamless transition for HealthVault users. With both a HealthVault-compatible API and a SMART on FHIR-compatible interface, Lydia is an ideal development and integration platform for health apps.

Lydia is powered by Get Real Health's flexible InstantPHR patient engagement platform and the CHBase personal health data and security platform. Together, they deliver relevant, actionable data to better manage health conditions and wellness.

InstantPHR offers a powerful platform for quickly assembling a variety of types of patient-engagement applications ranging from enterprise patient portals, wellness and chronic disease management apps, and remote patient monitoring solutions using an extensive library of modules. The CHBase health data and security platform exposes multiple programming and data interfaces to easily re-point existing applications at CHBase without redevelopment. An open, public developer's site and development environment, which provides all the information and tools needed to create applications, is available at developer.chbase.com.

"Our entire product line spans the healthcare spectrum and is designed for use in a home or clinical setting," said Jason Harmon, founding partner and chief technical officer of Get Real Health. "The key differentiator is our modular architecture and usability. Anyone from a mom trying to keep up with family medical records to a chief technical officer at a large hospital system will enjoy the same functionality and benefits.

"Former HealthVault account holders will benefit from Lydia's advanced features, including a sleek, new user experience, a growing ecosystem of connected devices, Touch ID and more," added Harmon. "The Lydia tagline, 'your life, your data,' reflects our commitment to ensuring patients have access to their health data in one place and the ability to interact with that data."
