CPSI Partners With WorldQuant Predictive to Improve Healthcare Outcomes

MOBILE, Ala.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CPSI (NASDAQ: CPSI), a community healthcare solutions company, and WorldQuant Predictive, a predictive analytics firm, today announced an innovative partnership that will use advanced technology, including machine learning and artificial intelligence, to derive meaningful insights from real-world clinical evidence to improve healthcare outcomes for patients.

Through this collaboration, CPSI and WorldQuant Predictive will seek to positively affect community healthcare, which could accelerate precision medicine, increase efficiency in the delivery of healthcare services and reduce overall healthcare costs. In addition, they will aim to develop models to improve decision support and benchmarks that could uncover and drive industry best practices for the community healthcare setting.

Boyd Douglas, president and chief executive officer of CPSI, said, “As a partner and advocate of community healthcare for more than 40 years, we understand the challenges our providers and healthcare leaders face every day. We believe this collaboration will uncover key learnings that are meaningful to the community healthcare industry. Our objectives are centered around positively affecting patient outcomes and the overall health of the communities we serve.”

“The healthcare industry remains heavily fragmented, and the faster we can establish a collaborative approach to data sharing and advanced analytics, the greater the benefits will be for society,” said James Golden, chief executive officer of WorldQuant Predictive. “Access to real-world data is a critical piece of the puzzle necessary to solve the greater healthcare challenges we face today.”
